31 March 2008 - Three of the nine Kennedy High School students who competed in the March 15 World Affairs Challenge at San Francisco State University earned placements in the academic event.

More than 500 middle and high school students from Northern California were quizzed on their knowledge of world affairs.

With this year's theme being global health, teams also discussed and proposed solutions to issues such as universal health care, child mortality and the side effects of genetically modified foods.

Sophomore Shaona Bandyopadhyay and junior Assile Osman tied for third in the "best global awareness quiz score" category. Also, senior Katie Gedeon was a member of the third-place team in the "best collaborative questions" category.
